

UNIVERSIDADE DE SÃO PAULO
USP International Cooperation Office

LETTER OF INVITATION

São Paulo, December 10th 2018.

Dear International Partner,

The USP International Cooperation Office announces the opening of up to 10 positions in the Scholarship Programme for Theoretical and Practical Training in Languages in 2019, presented to graduate students of foreign institutions with a current agreement with Universidade de São Paulo, as part of their educational background and teaching experience in tutoring English as a foreign language (TEFL), within the Language Education Programme at USP.

The Language Education Programme consists in the offering of a classroom course in English, free of charge, focusing on preparing undergraduate students at USP for proficiency exams in English, academic communication and extracurricular activities for the preparation of materials and meetings.

To participate, the candidate must be regularly enrolled in a higher education institution with an agreement with USP, on a graduate course (Master's or PhD) belonging to programmes related to the teaching of English as a foreign language (TEFL), and the candidate must have a background on teaching English as a foreign language. During their stay, successful applicants have the choice of obtaining academic credits by registering in the following postgraduate disciplines: Intercultural Language Education 1: Theoretical Frameworks; Intercultural Language Education 2: Experiential Learning.

All necessary information is available on our official Call attached. The candidate's admission will imply the knowledge and entire consent of the rules and conditions established by this Call.

Best regards,

Raul Machado Neto
Provost for International Cooperation
USP International Cooperation Office
Universidade de São Paulo